ABOUT THE PROGRAM: CANADIAN GENEALOGICAL RESEARCH

Patrick Kennedy will present a program on conducting Basic Canadian Genealogical Research, especially dealing with "lost American cousins."

He will provide guidance in using history, the internet and other resources to help people have a better understanding of how a family member may have disappeared into Canada, or Canadians may have come into America.

Handouts will be provided to help guide your Canadian research.

ABOUT THE SPEAKER Patrick D. Kennedy, a native of Ontario, Canada, is archivist of the Local History Library in Troy, Ohio. Patrick has spent as much time as allowable during the past 25 years researching his family history, including the last 10 years, in which he has focused more on discovering his Canadian heritage. He has researched in several local libraries and historical societies related to regions of his paternal ancestry, examined records in Toronto (Archives of Ontario), Montreal (Provincial Archives of Quebec) and Ottawa (National Archives of Canada), and has accessed the burgeoning records available online for Canadian research. Patrick does not come as an expert in all aspects Canadian research, but as one who has spent numerous hours researching and learning the 'ups-and-downs' of Canadian genealogy.
